Reports.

The German steamship Essen reports left Shanghai-on Slet October at 2.15 p.m., and had fresh N.E. monsoon and fine weather,

The British steamship Yesso reports left Fooshow on lat November, Amoy on the 2nd. and Swatow on the 3rd. From Foodbow to 412 CAL'A ST. SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA Amoy experienced strong N.E. mossoon and high sea with bazy weather. From Amoy to arrival moderate monsoon and fine weather. In New York Agents, J. & W. SELIGMAN & Co., 21, Amoy, the U.S. gun-vessel Fantic and one Jupanese frigate. In Swatow, the steamships Hengyle and Kwangbung; the latter left on the 3rd at noon for Amoy.

H.M.S. Victor Emmanual reports left Portsmouth (England) on July 4th; bringing out officers and men to recommission gon-vessels Oredit available throughout the world. on the China Station; and detachments of the 10th, 80th and Royal Artillery. Calling at St. Vincent for Coul, the ship proceeded on her voyage to the Caps of Good Hope; with light and contrary winds, rendering the passage long and tedious, occupying 68 days. After a short stay of 5 days at Simon's Bay, refitting, do., left for Singapore, This part the winds, were more favorable and great and good runs were made. On getting into the light winds again steam was used; and Singapore was remaked in 35 days. After two days stay at Singapore left for Hongkoug; experiencing calms and smooth son for several days. Steam was used until in latitude of Manila, when got full force of the monsion, blowing very strong, and at times amounted to a full vale. But by good management we weathered the various gales, and arrived Firm. antely at our destination, taking exactly four months completing the journey. Two births occurred on the voyage, a boy and a girl. One man died, having disappeared at sea, it is supposed by drowning.

HONGKONG, NOVEMBER DTH, 1874.

AT the recent meeting of the RECREATION CLUB some information of interest with refereuce to the extension of the Praya was given to the public. It will be recollected that some time ago we sketched a scheme by which the Praya towards the East might bo greatly improved, and suggested that if leave could be obtained from the Military Authorities to extend it over the portion of ground which belongs to them near the Cricket Ground, it would be possible to complete the tion with the late disturbance. Praya Eastward so that a tramway might be placed upon it, which would be of great shortly to Shanghai. advantage to the public. It seems from the correspondence which was read at the meeting in question that one portion of this scheme at least has been under consideration that, namely of extending the Praya un ed the assassination of Bismarck, has admitted Surveyor-General, it appears further that the Military Authorities are disposed to make the necessary concession. It is very much to be regretted, under these giroum, statices, that the serious damage caused by the recent typhoon, will in all likelihood render it impossible to carry out any such scheme for some time to come probably, a cording to what was said at the meeting, at least five years. It is to be hoped, however, that the scheme in question will not be abandoned, and that when opportunity offers to take Gool, asked for a remaid. He suid that have steps for a permanent improvement to the instructed by the Superintendent of the gaol to Praya, it may be reconsidered, and if pos- of 14 days' imprisonment yesterday (3rd) for

As suggested some time ago, it is highly desirable that the question of the Praya charge room cell, by request of the police should be fully gone into and that some scheme should be devised for supplying sisting of Dr. Ayres, the Colonial Surgeon, and one even at the cost of what may be a large Dr. Clapham, who will sit this afternoon to sum which will be proof against typhoons. It is a penny wise and pound foolish policy | | The case was then remanded till Friday. to go on with a system of construction which experience proves requires to be renewed every time Hongkong is visited by a typhoon; each and we certainly think it would be only common sense to postpone the waterwork scheme until a want which is certainly more pressing the Messageries Maritimes Co.'s Godowne at has been supplied. The amount that is expended in the course of ten years on the repairs to the Prnya would probably be sufficient to build a sea wall which would stand with small repairs from time to time, per- leaving the gool. manently, and it is an unsatisfactory state of things that a constant drain should be made upon the resources of the Colony, if it is pos--sible by a more carefully devised plan and the expenditure of a sufficient sum at orce, to make the Praya in such a way that it will be proof against damage of any serious character in the worst weather. So far as we understand the matter the building of a sea wall would not be comparatively very expensive, and as the work would spread over a series of years, the cost might not be burdensome if properly adjusted and arranged for. If the scheme were undertaken shortly it need not for some time interfere with the Boat House, as the work might be completed in sible. other parts first and the Boat House portion done only at the conclusion. The RECREATION CLUB would in that case still be therefore, could not get a cent. able to have a fair run with their buildingstill worthy of consideration, seeing the however, consent to a reduction the public. If, however, an opportunity prosents itself at present for securing the construction of a sea wall, and the extension of the Praya the whole length Eastward, it would be a thousand pities that it should be lost; and we would suggest, if the Military Authorities are willing to meet the views of cargo of wood sent in a Stamese vessel the Government, it would be well that an Hongkong. During the typhoon, the worselarrangement should be come to with them which would enable this very desirable scheme | was made that plaintiff should endeavour to reto be carried out as soon as opportunity may offer. Unlike the waterwork scheme, this great expense in biring junks and divers, and is one for which the public would probably not raise an objection to a loan being made. as few can fail to recognise the decessity of avoiding the constant expense from injury to the Praya as it is at present. The interest would probably fall much short of the amounts required for repairs under the present system, and this difference would be so much clear gain to the Colony, in addition to

Under all the circumstances existing, it would seem to be u desirable policy are absolutely necessary, and that the cost and ways and means for carrying out some such permanent improvement as above suggested should be taken into consideration. LL CLAIMS against the above Steamer | tleman of undoubted ability and talent, and would be able readily to devise a suitable scheme to meet the object in view, and it would be far better if possible to carry out a permanently valuable work of this kind than repaired before, at great expense, only to have to incur the like expenditure again whenever the next typhoon bappen to visit us.

It would be very heaty, however to jump to the conclusion that therefore our Trade la in a bad condition, or that it is growing materially worse. On the contrary, mustors are improving. The Expor for the month of August show a decrease in value as compared with the same month last year of mearly 10 per cent, but the fall upon the year up to the end of that month is not so great as it was some time ago. This is negative consolation only, it is true; but there are some piber elements in the account which may holp to increase its value. ORIENTAL STUDY.

The idea of "solidarity" is rapidly taking a the present age. In no civilised country does any class of workers delight in a separate oxistenco, Each feels itself united by close bonds other nations. Hence International Congresses are becoming common. Lust week all the world was reading the barangues of Socialist delegates at Brussels; and in the tame city students of international law, from the leading States, have been doing their utmost to solve knotty problems that affect equally all Europenn peoples. Of such assemblies none desurre warmer recognition than the International Congress of Orientalists, now holding its meetings in London. It is unobtrusive in its pretonsions; but its labours display the highest tidemark of modern thought incertain directions. and encourage a movement which, although apparently remote from daily life, will in the long run affect the most familiar ideas and feelings. Yesterday Mr. Max Muller opened the Aryan Section of the Congress; and his speech was a record of achievements of which sobulars may well-be proud. On such a subject no one is better fitted to address an audience than Mr. Muller. He has won, as an original investigator, a European fame; but in England we owe him desper gratitude than is due to a mere erplorer. He has mustered grand ideas, and communicated them to the whole reading public. The science of language was. most unknown in this country until famous lectures, as obserming in style as they are fresh and vigorous in thought, truced the chief lines which had already heen marked by German and French philologers. Yesterday he made an elequest plea for his favourity studies. Here and there he perhaps adopted an exuggerated style of expression. for instance, he compared the influence-likely to be exerted on Western thought by contact with that of the East to the effects of Roman and Greek culture on the Northern barbarians. This is surely speaking too strongly. The old Tentonic warriors, when they reached the sunny countries of the South, were smazed by the spectacle of a superior civilisation, and in many instances were subdued and tamed by the peoples they conquered. Nothing analogous to this happens with respect to East and West in our day. Oriental peoples have to learn from us much more than we can learn from them. Still, me one acquainted with the facts will deny the enormous benefits which have sprung from a study of Eastern languages-and, above all, Sansorit. Mr. Muller dwelt emphatically on the important part played in that atudy by the comparative method. And of course he is right; we should still have been labouring under the old, delusions as to the "primitive speech" if Latin, Greek, Sanscrit, and the cognate Aryan tongues, had not been compared and classified in a strictly scientific spirit. It is well, however, to remember that the comparative method is not confined to philology. By this method all the greatest recent advances in science have been made. To it are due th greatest discoveries in auttomy and physiology and the magnificent doctrine of the correlation of forces is sumply a triumph of comparative research: The comparative method is, in fact, the key which unlocks the scorets of every department of investigation. It is the common inheritance of all thinkers. This in no sense disparages-it adds new meaning and dignity to-the results of philological work. These results mark an epoch in intellectual progress. Formerly it was thought that, while law inight control the physical world, or even be traced in the action of certain mental powers, there was no such thing in speech. There seemed only a bewildering multitude of languages, each with it own rules, or only slightly connected with each other. To those who dimly perceived that in this region also there must be order, the only An Anglo-Chinese Diotionagy, published legitimate theory appeared to be that of a partioular tongue from which all others were derived. Some claimed the place of honour for Hebrew; enthusiastic Ochs maintained belonged to Gaelic. We now know bow groundless are such notious. No scholar funcies we yet comprehend the true place of every language; whole families of speech have meyer even been examined. Nor does an one pretend that the origin of speech itself i understood. When we touch that question we come upon an ultimate difficulty, respecting which we must be content to remain ignorant But we have at least reached thus far-we are assured there is nothing arbitrary in speech of the future will be to detect, these, and to reveal unity in elements at present widely so-Mr. Muller clearly showed that the comparative study of languages has profoundly affected have one general meaning. Of these examples other pursuits. It has led us, for instance, to this work contains more than five times as take more callarged views of mythology. We many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub. Now CODE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE. do not now imagine we can understand the mythology of a particular people without examining that of all related peoples. A deep philofresh significance when we find that others, under totally different conditions, have puzzled over the same enigmas, and attempted equally complete solutions. Western modes of thought and feeling will certainly not be revolutionised by Eastern ideas, but they may be widened and enriched. Knowledge of Sansorit, in which one section of our kinsmen has utfered its deepest aspirations, will save us from concluding that we discern every aspect of the truth, or that the whole truth can be grasped by any single race. The same expanding influence proceeds I Community, the Chinese Issue of this Newchwang. from acquainlance with the work of Libourers Paper has been, from the commencement of the Tientein and | in the rich field of languages less nour Ohina New Year, issued DAILY instead of on ly allied to our own than that of the alternate days as before. TWO HUNDRED MEN AND BOYS IM PRISONED IN A COAL PIT.

An accident of an alarming obaracter has courred at the chief pit belonging to the Stand Lane Colliery Company (Limited), at Badoliffe. The guiding rods of the shaft on which a full cage was ascending broke, and the onge and its contents, falling cross wise, wore LONDON wedged between the uprights and the brick, work. Operations were suddenly brought to a standstill, and the whole of the men and boye, numbering apwards of 200, were imprisoned in the pit for many hours. An apparatus was at length rigged up, and the miners were slowly and safely wound out of the pit by means of an unused shaft situated at a distance from the one in which the accident occurred.

INOR comprehensiveness and practical survive. this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous ubjects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are bere given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature, Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accente being carefully marked on the best principle bitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have beretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Chalmers' Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst. this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammare and other elementary works as yet published, the atudent of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli cations and equivalents of different words which Extracts. TROPIC MIDNIGHT. The rain floats off; the crescent moon Holds in its cup a round of dask, Like palm-bads in the month of June Just breaking through their vernal husk. Night-blooming agaves fill the sheaf, To eatch the light distilled in showers, Till overflowing cup and leaf-Its cluster brenks in midnight flowers.

A sensious stillness north and south And cost and west, and just as sweet As seeds of pomegranate in the mouth, Or kisses when young lovers meet, Breaks in a low, sweet under tone, Like brooks that grieve in beds of fera, As if by curve and pebble-stone The moon had spilled her silver ura.

Its niry current fills and ripes The flower and fruit to wanton uso; It blows the rush's slender pipes, And rounds the purple fig with juice Like merchants breaking kids of nard Or jars of olives, desert horn, Ring number left their prickled shard

Like Hebrew maids, the citrons hold . Their pitchers to the enpour spring, And fill the hollow rinds of gold With musky midnight's flavouring, So once, I think, earth knew her Lord, In lands like those of palm and vine, When midnight gave the sweet accord That turned the water into wine.
